

I'm concerned that translator stations such as K-LOVE (90.7) may be displaced if the LPFM stations are given priority. I greatly appreciate the wholesome and uplifting programming that K-LOVE provides our community. It is about the only station I listen to because my family really enjoys it and I do not have to be worried that my small children may hear something inappropriate. I'm not sure if there would be anything of such good quality for us to listen to if K-LOVE would get taken off the air. I also enjoy knowing that my friends and family around the country can be listening to the same thing at the same time that I am. It creates a larger sense of community with the rest of our nation. K-LOVE is also a listener supported station, so it would not even be on the air if its listeners did not want it. I hope you will consider these issues and decide that translator stations are serving a vital role and not force them off the air.
